Patrick Nolan impressed me from the start. He did not simply want to copy the current coverage that we had in place and give us a quote. He worked with us on completing a questionnaire he had developed to ensure that we had all the bases covered and the coverage we needed.

I was really surprised when he came back with a proposal that reduced our premiums by approximately 20%. His proposal included a number of valuable recommendations that no one else had ever suggested before. He was especially helpful in explaining how our workers compensation premiums are developed and the things we could do to help keep the cost down.

Patrick is more than someone who just wants to make a sale. He is really into helping restaurant owners effectively manage their risk and insurance cost long after the policies are delivered. I have wholeheartedly recommended him to everyone that I know.
